

FRANKE TOBEY JONES CELEBRATES CENTENNIAL

Earlier this year, luxury senior living facility Franke Tobey Jones in Tacoma celebrated a century of impact in the community – and in tandem with the milestone, the organization is shining a light on the women leaders who have helped usher in its evolution.

“From its founding days to the present, Franke Tobey Jones has been at the forefront of championing women in leadership roles, fostering an environment where female leaders have thrived and driven our mission forward,” a news release from the organization said.

Among the women it’s highlighting include Virginia Mason, who helped lay the ground-work for the organization; Ann Bedrowsky, a superintendent in the early days who advanced resident care and community engagement; and Margaret Long, who served as the board of directors’ secretary for more than 40 years. The organization is currently presided over by Judy Dunn, who serves as president and CEO. franketobeyjones.com
