Franke Tobey Jones, a not-for-profit senior living community in Tacoma, is celebrating its 100th anniversary — and to commemorate the milestone, it's launched a new Centennial section on its website.

Following several months of work, the Centennial section features an 11-decade timeline with stories and photos, a "1924 Looking Back" commemorative booklet, resident and team member stories, and photos, a release from the organization said.

In mid-June, Franke Tobey Jones will release a video that takes a historical look at the organization. And in August, a centennial-commemorating book, "Franke Tobey Jones — 100 Years, 100 Stories," will be released.
